

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

When the Union and the Central Pacific Railroads were built both roads maintained an independent telegraph line for commercial purposes. Then there was competition between the railroad line and the Western Union, and though money was much more plentiful than it is now telegraph rates were as low as they are today. Subsequently the Western Union and the railroad lines were consolidated, and competition ceased. In 1888 the Anderson bill, requiring subsidized railroads to maintain independent telegraph lines along their roads for commercial purposes, was passed by Congress. A suit was brought in the Eighth Circuit Court to compel the Union Pacific to maintain a separate telegraph line. Associate Justice Brewer declared the agreement between the Western Union and the Union Pacific Telegraph Companies, by which the Western Union had exclusive rights to operate the telegraph lines along the railroad, null and void, and directed the Union Pacific to operate its own line of telegraph. The case was sent to the Court of Appeals, and Judges Caldwell and Thayer reversed Justice Brewer, and the case went to the Supreme Court of the United States. The Supreme Court has reversed the Court of Appeals and affirmed the decision of Justice Brewer. Justice Harlan, who delivered the decision of the Supreme Court, said in reference to the object and scope of the Pacific railroads acts that the first and eighth sections of the acts of 1862-64 are wholly inconsistent with the idea that the Union Pacific Railroad Company could have fulfilled its obligations to the Government by simply constructing a railroad without making any provision whatever for the construction or operation of a telegraph line, thereby leaving all communication by telegraph along its route to the absolute control of private corporations deriving no authority from the National Government.

The court holds that it is entirely competent for Congress to add to, alter or amend the acts of 1862-64 so as to require the Union Pacific to maintain and operate by and through its own officers and employees telegraph lines for railroad and commercial purposes. It is enjoying the bounty of the Government subject to the condition, among others, that it would perform those duties.

The opinion further declares that no telegraph company can, by contract with a railroad company operating one of the powerful roads of the United States over which interstate commerce is conducted, acquire an exclusive right to such railroad for telegraph purposes. The cause is remanded to the Circuit Court, with instructions to make a supplemental decree enlarging the period in which the railroad and telegraph companies may make such arrangements and adjustments as shall become necessary by reason of the annulling of the contracts between them to carry out the final decree of the court.

As this decision applies to the Central Pacific as well as the Union Pacific, it means that there is an end to the monopoly which the Western Union has enjoyed since it was consolidated with the railroad lines. The railroad companies will now have to maintain independent telegraph lines and operate them for the accommodation of the public, as well as for their own use.

WILL SOME GOLDBUG EXPLAIN?

The United States is exporting silver to London where it is purchased at the price fixed by brokers. If coining silver in the United States at the ratio of 16 to 1 is dishonest, as the goldbugs allege, is Great Britain honest when it coins the silver purchased from the United States into legal tender money at the ratio of 15½ to 1? If Great Britain can profitably buy American silver, coin it into money and use that money in its Eastern trade, why cannot the United States do the same thing and make the profit and get the trade as well? If free coinage would deluge the United States with the silver of the world, why is it that Mexico is not deluged with silver? and why is Mexico exporting silver dollars instead of importing silver?

It might enlighten those whom they tell us are affected with the "silver craze" if some intelligent goldbug would explain the cause of the conditions stated, for it does seem strange that Great Britain can purchase American silver, coin it into money at a gain of 15½ grains of silver to 1 grain of gold, use this money in its Asiatic trade with great profit and do it honestly, while it is dishonest from a Cleveland-Sherman standpoint for the United States to coin silver into money at the ratio of 16 grains of silver to 1 grain of gold. It does not seem credible that the United States would be acting dishonestly in making 16 grains of silver equal to 1 grain of gold in money, and that Great Britain is acting honestly in making money in which 15½ grains of American silver equal 1 grain of gold.

THE SILVER DOLLARS MYSTERY.

The Elko Independent comments upon the fact that seventy-five or eighty bags of silver dollars, brand new and mintage of 1893, were in the State Treasury last January and as no explanation of the strange circumstance has been made, suggests that ex-State Treasurer Richard ought to be able to throw some light on the JOURNAL'S inquiry.

No doubt the Independent is right. The ex-State Treasurer ought to be able to fully explain the matter. It is a subject of general comment. County Treasurers say they pay the State's proportion of taxes with the identical money paid in by the taxpayers, and in no instance, so far as the JOURNAL can ascertain, was any considerable number of new silver dollars paid into the State Treasury for taxes a year ago. If Mr. Richard desires to explain the appearance of seventy or eighty thousand new silver dollars in the State Treasury at the close of the year 1894, the columns of the JOURNAL are at his service for the purpose.

IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE.

That is the Punishment Fixed for Brady.

MARYSVILLE, November 20.—The jury in the Brady case found the defendant guilty and fixed the penalty at imprisonment for life. Brady shot down Sheriff Bogard while robbing the Oregon express. A slight palor was seen to mount to Brady's face when the verdict was announced, but aside from that he showed no emotion.

C. Weeman, who told Juror Ogden to "hurry up and hang him," while the trial was in progress, has been cited to appear for contempt of court. Brady and a companion named Browning first introduced the bicycle into the train-robbing business. They left San Francisco on wheels and toured through the State. One night they held up the Oregon express near Wheatland. Browning, while engaged in robbing the passengers, was shot and killed by Sheriff Bogard of Tehama county, who was a passenger on the train. Just as Bogard fired, however, Brady entered the car behind him and shot him in the back, and then escaped, and was for months pursued by the officers. He had several brushes with the officers and was wounded, but always got away, until finally he was surrounded in Yolo county and surrendered. It is almost certain that Brady and Browning committed several other train robberies before they tried the Oregon express. One robbery near Sacramento netted the bandits $50,000, but they were forced to hide the money in order to escape. Tramps found the coin and made way with it. Brady and Browning were also accused of the murder of Cornelius Staggs at the Ingleside road house, near San Francisco, who was killed while resisting robbery.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

One of the San Francisco Old Soundrels Tried to Kill Himself.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 20.—Eugene Pardini, the shoemaker who with Lane, Meyer and several other old men are charged with outraging young girls, attempted to commit suicide in jail. His fellow prisoners taunted him, and told of the tortures he would experience in prison. This afternoon Pardini forced his gold-rimmed spectacles far down his throat and attempted to strangle himself with a handkerchief. He was discovered and resuscitated, but he managed to swallow a part of the gold frame of the spectacles and one of the glasses, and may not recover.

Peter Lane, another of the old men charged with the awful crime, was today held for trial in $25,000 bail. On one of the five charges preferred against him two little girls testified as to his treatment of them. The defense declined to introduce testimony, admitting that sufficient showing to hold Lane had been made.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

THE TRIAL OF JAMES HENNEY—NINTH DAY.

Professor Price Tells More About the Lost Bullion—Interesting Testimony.

[Correspondence of the JOURNAL.]

CARSON CITY, November 20, 1895.

Thomas Price—I found the gold in the samples of the debris sent me from the mint sewer and outlet in a very finely divided metallic form, bright and pure and microscopic—not visible to the naked eye. Gold like that is never found in nature, neither is pure chloride of silver, except from refineries.

I recently received a lot of six samples of bluestone, etc., from Mr. Woodbury of the Morgan mill, Carson river, for assay. No. 1 was simply bluestone; No. 2 resulted 418 ounces of gold and 68 ounces of silver per ton; No. 3, 820 ounces of gold and 27 ounces of silver per ton; No. 4, 11,102 gold, 488 silver; No. 5, material from the inside of a lead pipe, traces of gold and silver; No. 6, water, traces of gold and silver.

Subsequently I received another lot of samples from Woodbury. Sample marked X resulted total value $705 in gold and silver, silver predominating; XX, bluestone crystal, traces of gold and silver; XXX, mixed material, $17 64; XXXX, from pieces of rubber hose, material from inside, $15,000 per ton; XXXXX, pieces of lead pipe, material from inside, gold tracings, silver, $2,538 30 per ton. This shows that something of value had passed through the hose and pipe.

The best free milling Comstock ore ought to yield 80 to 85 percent of assay value from our samples. About twenty or twenty-five cubic feet of earth ought to weigh a ton. Bullion is gold and silver, or gold and silver were melted into bars or placed into merchantable shape with marked value.

Cross examined by Clarke—Am acquainted with the Reno Reduction Works, Beck and Clark. The percentage of loss by the nitric acid process under the most favorable circumstances would be slight. It depends upon the character of the melt. In mint business the Government allows sufficient loss to cover all regular possibilities, loss by the sulphuric process can only be defined by assay. When acids are not pure there is loss thereby, and metallic gold passes off with chloride of silver. In all mints there are losses by any and all processes used.

Nitrate of silver solution is carried to the chloride of silver tank, and whatever runs off from that or other washings from the refinery goes down the sewer and should be found there if found at all, mixed up and precipitated in the mud and debris. Gold in suspension could be left in the wood of tanks or sewer. It can be precipitated by filtering through charcoal or by carbolic matter flowing from the town sewer or meet with in the fields over which it may overflow. Recent flows through the mint sewer could be enriched by the past deposits of the last twenty-five years, or since the mint started. The loss would naturally accumulate more and more, and I should be surprised not to find it so. The nitric acid of commerce carries from 1 to 2 per cent of chlorine, which dissolves gold. Don't know about that used in the Carson mint. In treating 3,000 ounces of gold, admitting the presence of chlorine, four atoms of gold would be dissolved for every ounce submitted. The loss on 9,000 ounces of silver and 3,000 ounces of gold would amount to about 200 ounces. The presence of 1 per cent of chlorine would account for the loss in 10,000 ounces of 100 ounces of gold, also of silver; in fact gross carelessness in the mint workings would account for the loss. The organic matter from the town sewers would convert the gold carried in solution into metallic gold immediately or in a few hours.

Witness described to the jury the sulphuric acid process carefully in all its details. Pure sulphuric acid will not dissolve gold, but with pure nitric acid mixed it will dissolve it into peroxide of gold, which is formed by boiling the gold in the acids. The water supply of Carson comes from the mountains near by, a granite formation, and each gallon of it with the imperceptible amount of salt it contains is sufficient to precipitate one fourth of a grain of silver. As for the mud and debris from the mint sewer I am only responsible for the assays I made therefrom.

Clarke—Mr. Price, have you heard of such a thing as "salting" a mine or anything for assay?

Certainly.

Coffin—General, you had better get assays of the Mint sewer made for yourself and the prosecution. You have the opportunity, we will lend you the tools we used and show where we took our samples from. You can see what we have done and go and do also.

The Court—Gentlemen, never mind discussion on that point. I will see that properly attended to.

Coffin—Would the sewer solution running spread out across the pasture have the same effect in the way of precipitation?

Yes, but it would take a little longer, perhaps. Twenty-five years of the Mint working should not justify the finding of such a surplus of loss such as has been sent to me and assayed. It is evidently from the more recent workings. Settling the solutions in the waste tanks of the Mint in the yard would catch only the heaviest sedimentary deposits; the rest would pass down the sewer.

O. F. Woodbury sworn—Have charge of the acid manufactory connected with the Morgan mill, on the Carson river. Sent seven samples of bluestone, etc., to Thomas Price, San Francisco, recently for assay, and have the returns therefor. Sample No. 4, from the sediment at the bottom of the tank from which the wagon is loaded to haul to the Mint, which we have a contract to supply, assayed five ounces of gold and 111 ounces of silver to the ton. Sample No. 5, from the tank which receives the acid solution brought back from the Mint after using, assayed twenty-six ounces of silver and three ounces of gold per ton. Samples of the rubber hose and lead pipe used also assayed heavily.

Professor Price—The amount of material from the interior lining of the hose and pipe was about a quarter of an ounce each, the hose averaging $20,000 to the ton and the lead pipe $2,000.

J. P. Woodbury, Superintendent of the Morgan mill—Our contract with the Mint is to furnish acid of the grade of 52 Baumet. The residue or solution after using in the Mint, brought back to the mill, is used in the reduction of ore from the Con. Virginia mine.

The testimony of the witness went to show that the percentage of the bullion yield of the ore had been very largely increased by the use of this solution, and the slums collected in a dam below the mill were very much enriched by the flow of the water into it.

Clarke, for the prosecution, objected to anything further of this testimony.

Coffin—We wish to show that for the last two years the returns of that ore have shown over 100 per cent of the battery assays, whereas before that they were not over 85 per cent.

The court sustained the objection and ruled out the testimony of Mr. Woodbury.

INSANITY A CRIME.

The Law as She is Interpreted at Wadsworth.

In the Justice Court of Wadsworth township, county of Washoe, State of Nevada, State of Nevada, plaintiff, vs. Dominico Tomaselli, defendant.

A complaint under oath having been filed in this court on the 15th day of November, 1895, charging said defendant with the crime of insanity, and Dr. J. E. Jackman, a practicing physician at Wadsworth, having testified in this court that the mind of Dominico Tomaselli is deranged and that with proper care said Dominico Tomaselli may or may not recover, and the said Dominico Tomaselli's insane acts having been committed on the 13th, 14th and 15th days of November 1895, and a warrant of arrest having been duly issued on said 15th day of November, 1895, for the arrest of said defendant, and said defendant, having been duly arrested, and thereafter, on the 15th day of November, 1895, tried before the court without a jury and the facts found by the court to be as charged in the complaint; and all singular the law and the premises by the Court here understood and fully considered, and no sufficient cause appearing to the Court why judgment should not be pronounced against said defendant Dominico Tomaselli.

Wherefore, it is ordered and adjudged by the Court, that for said offense you, the said Dominico Tomaselli, be taken by Constable E. T. Lothrop, to Reno, the county seat of Washoe county, to be examined as to his sanity by the proper authorities and to be held in custody by the sheriff of Washoe county pending such examination.

Done in open court this 15th day of November, 1895.

N. A. HUMMEL, Justice of the Peace.

The following indorsement, written by the examining physicians, who have a keen appreciation of the ridiculous, appears in this model legal document:

RENO, Nev., November 20, 1895.

This cause coming on to be heard on appeal before the examining physicians sitting in bank and evidence being heard, and the defendant pleading his own cause and the same being considered. It is ordered that the within judgment of insanity be reversed, the defendant discharged and the committing magistrate held for further examination.

HOTEL DEADBEATS.
SHARP RASCALS WHO ARE TOO MUCH FOR THE SHREWDEST CLERKS.

Some of the Tricks by Which They Obtain Accommodations Without Paying and Also Borrow Money - Empty Trunks and Sogus Packages.

Despite every precaution taken by shrewd hotel clerks a large number of persons are constantly engaged in securing board and lodging by fraud.

It is usually supposed that when a guest arrives at a hotel without baggage he cannot secure accommodations unless he pays in advance, but the tricky "deadbeat" not only will live in the hotel free for a week, but in many cases will secure a loan from the unsuspecting gentleman behind the desk.

The "deadbeat" constantly evolves new tricks to "do up" the hotel man, and it was not many days ago that a well known hotel was defrauded in a very skillful manner of a week's board and some of the cash in the till. The "deadbeat" walked into the hotel lobby and in a confident manner placed his name on the register as hailing from Chicago. He was neatly dressed and carried a small grip. He informed the clerk that he was a traveling man on his first trip to the coast.

Traveling men are good customers, so the new arrival was assigned to a good room. He handed two baggage checks to the clerk and requested that his trunks be sent for from the depot. In an hour or two he inquired why his baggage had not been sent up to his room. The porter was sent for and explained that the transfer company had not been able to find it. Inquiries were made by telephone, but the railroad people could give no information of the missing baggage.

"Well, I am in a nice fix," said the new guest to the hotel clerk, "for all my clothes are in my trunks, and I suppose the things have gone astray."

The clerk was very sympathetic, for a traveling man without his clothes is indeed to be pitied. The fellow managed to borrow $20 to buy some shirts, collars, ties, etc., and went out of the hotel vowing vengeance against the railroad company. He even had the hotel clerk pay for a telegram to Chicago inquiring at the depot there as to where the trunks bearing certain numbered checks had been sent to. The reply came back that they would look the matter up, and pending the information the new guest had a royal good time at the hotel. In a few days he disappeared, and it then dawned upon the hotel men that they had been neatly swindled by the means of two baggage checks which evidently had been stolen at some time in Chicago or elsewhere.

Another favorite trick to defraud a hotel is done by means of a confederate. One man will go to a first class house and secure a good room. About the second day he will be in the office, and while there the hotel clerk will receive a telephone message purporting to come from a well known store asking if Mr. So-and-so desires the goods he ordered sent up to the hotel. The clerk will naturally ask the guest the question, and he will reply that he desires the goods sent up. When the package arrives, there is always $10 to $25 to be paid. The hotel man is requested by the guest to "settle the amount and charge it up in my bill." It does not pay to offend a guest whose appearance indicates wealth, so the money is handed out in payment. The guest now disappears, and his trunk is found to be a cheap one and generally full of paper, while the package which has been paid for by the hotel people is also worthless.

Bogus telegrams and letterheads are frequently used by "deadbeats" in order to secure a little ready cash until "my money arrives," and very often the scheme works all right, for a hotel clerk is always afraid of offending a guest in these matters, for should he mistrust an honest man he will injure the hotel's reputation. While most hotels make it a rule not to cash drafts or checks or loan money, still very often the "deadbeat" will make them break it.

A scheme which has recently been worked all over the country was for the "deadbeat" to send by express a package to a hotel in another city. It would be heavily sealed and marked, "Value $200," and the hotel man, thinking that it contained jewelry intended for a guest soon to arrive, would put it in the safe. In a few days the "deadbeat" would turn up at the hotel, register and inquire if a package had arrived for him. He would be told that it was in the safe, and he would tell the hotel man that it contained watches and valuables. The same night a loan of $20 would be asked for, and the hotel man, remembering the valuable package in the safe, would in nine cases out of ten hand out the coin. The guest would disappear, and when the package was opened it was found to be of no value.

As all accounts in hotels are rendered weekly it is impossible for dishonest persons to obtain free living for longer than a week, for they will be requested to pay or vacate.

A man and his wife, by placing a supposed jewel case in a hotel safe, managed, some time ago, to secure over six weeks' living in a well known hotel in this city. The landlord, who had seen the woman wearing a quantity of jewels, naturally supposed they were in the jewel case in his safe. When the guests disappeared and the package was opened, it was found to be a trunk strap, carefully coiled up and tied with string. - San Francisco Chronicle.

Bismarck on Marriage.
A Vienna paper publishes a collection of aphorisms on love, women and marriage which have found utterance in the sittings of the German parliament. The following dictum is attributed to Bismarck: "It is an immense advantage to the career of any man if he can embark on the voyage of life without a female crew."

It appears that a species of true crocodile is found in southern Florida on both coasts. It is hardly distinguishable from the alligator except by the shape of its head, though it grows bigger and attains a length of 18 feet.

Can it be true, as is so constantly affirmed, that there is no sex in souls? I doubt it exceedingly. - Coleridge.

NEVERLY A BLUFF.
It might have been expected that an explanation had been made.

Mr. Congressman O'Neill of Missouri, who was in the city for a week or ten days recently, has a friend in Washington, a Frenchman, who has the happy faculty of beguiling the house in such a pleasant manner that the Missourian often goes to bed long after the chimes of midnight have tolled the beginning of another day. About 8 a. m. a few nights ago it occurred to Mr. O'Neill that nature had some claims upon him of paramount importance with those of his French friend, and just for a bluff he suddenly broke off the conversation, which took place in the lobby of the hotel in which the retired statesman was stopping, and said to the clerk in a loud voice:

"Call me at 8:30. I've got to take an early train!"

The Frenchman excused himself hurriedly and departed, and with a heart rejoicing in the success of his stratagem O'Neill sought his couch and prepared to rest until the dinner bell should summon him to his day's task, for he had no intention of leaving for several days to come.

About 15 minutes of 8 o'clock a violent rapping at his door awoke him from the sweetest part of his slumbers, and a familiar voice in the corridor was heard to exclaim:

"Pardonnez-moi, Monsieur O'Neill. Let's nearly 8 o'clock!"

"Hang it!" exclaimed O'Neill, "what's that to me? Go away and let me sleep."

At this the pounding at the door became more violent than before.

"But you said you wanted to get up to catch the 8 o'clock train, and so I had come to wake you. Get up, get up, or you will miss the 8 o'clock train," and the pounding continued.

It was no use to remonstrate. O'Neill's friend insisted on making him get up and open the door. Then he explained that he had heard him tell the clerk to call him in time for the early train, but as he had kept him up so late the night before he feared that the clerk might forget, and accordingly he had come to the hotel to see that he did not oversleep himself.

"You old muttonhead!" explained the Missourian. "Don't you know that I left that order just to get rid of you because I wanted to go to bed to get some sleep? Don't you know it was all a bluff?"

"Bluff?" exclaimed the Frenchman. "Bluff, Monsieur O'Neill?"

"Yes, bluff," repeated O'Neill.

"So! Why you not tell me so?" demanded his friend, "and I would not have come."

Wanted a Change.
An Irishman of the Dublin city artillery was admitted for treatment in the Stokes hospital. Fat was rather displeased with being ordered "milk diet," and applying to the ward master for a change was directed to mention the matter to the doctor attending him.

Next morning he was greeted by the doctor with the usual, "Well, and how are you this morning, my man?"

"Guess the doctor's surprise when Pat replied:

"I'd thank ye, sorr, if you'd change me diet. Sure I was weaned off milk when I was noine months old." - Life's Calendar.

A Useful Dog.
"You say that I'm not altogether objectionable to your parents," he said ruefully.

"No," she replied, "father and mother both speak very highly of you."

"Then why does that big dog assault me every time I come near and chew a piece out of my clothes?"

"Oh, you mustn't mind Brutus. He's trained to do that. Aunt has gotten almost enough samples from him to make a lovely patchwork quilt." - Washington Star.
